CHINESE ASSOCIATION FOR EIA ESTABLISHED

The Chinese Association for Environmental Impact Assessment will be established on 12 January 2012.

The Association is legally approved by the Ministry of Civil Affairs and is supported by the Ministry of Environmental Protection. The national association, consisting of Chinese EIA institutions as well as scholars and experts, is a non-profit organization. The main goals are to provide EIA-related consultancy (mainly for the central and local governments) and training service, and to promote information sharing & exchange, and international collaboration. The head of the association is Mr. Zhu Xingxiang, former director of EIA Department of Ministry of Environmental Protection.

NEW GBIF EXECUTIVE SECRETARY ANNOUNCED

The Governing Board of the Global Biodiversity Information Facility (GBIF) has approved the appointment of Donald Hobern as its new Executive Secretary.

Currently the director of the Atlas of Living Australia (ALA), Hobern took up the post at the end of January 2012. He will arrive at the Copenhagen-based Secretariat as GBIF starts to implement its new strategic plan for 2012-16, aimed at advancing the data content, informatics and engagement of its worldwide network.

Commenting on confirmation of his appointment, Donald Hobern said: "I am really excited to be returning to work with GBIF. The Global Biodiversity Information Facility has a unique and important role to play in supporting national and international activities to manage biodiversity data.

"I look forward to learning more about how GBIF can meet the needs of each of its Participants. There are so many exciting projects going on in different regions, and global collaboration can help to maximize the benefits from all this work."

Hobern replaces the current GBIF Executive Secretary Nicholas King, who left his post at the end of December after four and a half years in the job.

"GBIF is poised to really deliver on its ten years of investment to date, as we wrap up this phase. Donald is the right person to take GBIF forward for its next exciting phase," said King.

Joanne Daly paid tribute to Nicholas King's contribution during his time as Executive Secretary. "Nick has worked tirelessly and with great skill, ensuring that GBIF has fulfilled the mission of its current phase, to move into full operation as a global facility for the benefit of science and society."

For further information, contact Tim Hirsch, GBIF Senior Programme Officer for Engagement, thirsch@gbif.org.

■ SAMPREETHI AIPANJIGULY • GLOBAL BIODIVERSITY INFORMATION FACILITY (GBIF) • SAIPANJIGULY@GBIF.ORG

The Global Biodiversity Information Facility (GBIF) was established by governments in 2001 to encourage free and open access to biodiversity data, via the Internet. Through a global network of 57 countries and 47 organizations, GBIF promotes and facilitates the mobilization, access, discovery and use of information about the occurrence of organisms over time and across the planet. IAIA and GBIF are frequent collaborators, and Nick King is currently serving on the IAIA Board of Directors.

Rita R. Hamm, Chief Executive Officer

IAPA TO HAVE A NEW PUBLISHER: TAYLOR & FRANCIS

Readers will have noticed in the previous IAIA Newsletter (October-November-December 2011, Vol. 23, No. 2, p. 4) that Bill Page (Beech Tree Publications) is retiring. Bill advised IAIA of this early so that IAIA could identify a new journal publisher in good time to ensure the continued smooth publication of Impact Assessment and Project Appraisal (IAPA).

The IAIA Board appointed a Task Force comprising Frank Vanclay (Chair), Maria Partidário, Bill Ross, Angus Morrison-Saunders, Luis Sánchez and Rita Hamm. The Terms of Reference for the Task Force were approved at the IAIA Board meeting in Puebla, with the Task Force being "charged with undertaking a process to select a new publisher for the IAIA journal and any relevant considerations associated therewith, including for example reflecting on the appropriateness of the journal's title, its statement of Aims and Scope, and the format and presentation of the journal."

A Request for Proposals was developed and sent to some fifteen or so specifically-chosen publishers. A copy was also placed on the IAIA website. At the closing date, six proposals had been received, from which the Task Force made a shortlist of three. The three proposals, each of which would have been acceptable to IAIA, were subject to intensive scrutiny against selection criteria such as:

- Acceptability of the proposed financial arrangements
- The publisher's ability to produce the journal in a professional and timely manner and at high quality and to deliver around the world
- Standing as (journal) publisher of reputation and ability to advance the reputation of IAPA and IAIA
- Adequacy of the on-line manuscript management system and overall publishing process
- The publisher's commitment to sustainability in publication process
- Alignment with IAIA values
- Agreement to make back issues available

Eventually Taylor & Francis was selected as the preferred publisher. A recommendation was made to the IAIA Board, which was accepted at the Board meeting in Porto in November 2011, where the contract with Taylor & Francis was signed. The outcome is a great result for IAIA, with considerable financial savings to IAIA through the increased sales volume likely to be achieved by working with a large publisher. However, the higher production cost of hard copy issues will necessitate a small increase in the price of hard copy to those members who choose to continue to receive hard copy issues. Taylor & Francis will digitize all back copy (from Vol. 1 of Impact Assessment Bulletin) at no cost to IAIA and make this available as open access. IAPA will also now be in full color in the online version, and will have a limited number of color pages in hard copy. There are also favorable arrangements relating to the inclusion of IAPA in various relevant philanthropic access initiatives.

During the time that Bill Page and Beech Tree was our publisher, IAPA developed considerably as a journal. The strong interest in publishing IAPA by several publishers and the favorable terms negotiated with Taylor & Francis could only have been achieved because of the sound footing IAPA has achieved under Bill's guidance. As expressed by journal editors Angus Morrison-Saunders and Francois Retief in the previous newsletter, IAIA owes much appreciation to Bill. We look forward to having T&F serve us as well and as long as did Beech Tree.

As an aside, it is interesting to note that some fifteen years ago when Bill Page and Beech Tree were selected, Frank Vanclay was then Chair of the Task Force and Maria Partidário was IAIA President at that time.

IAIA expresses its thanks all members of the task force for their diligent and thoughtful care of this important IAIA issue.

BOARD OF DIRECTOR HIGHLIGHTS

At its October 2011 meeting in Porto, Portugal, in support of IAIA's Strategic Action Plan (SAP) and in general business, the Board of Directors:

- Approved all Committee nominations
- Initiated a plan to incorporate Twitter into IAIA12
- Approved new and/or revised guidelines for Council meetings, the Annual General Meetings, and Awards
- Approved the 2012 budget
- Reviewed the suggestion to offer an expanded student fee waiver program; a framework for non-conference activities will be developed
- Approved the contract with Taylor & Francis to take over publication of IAPA

Full minutes are available at www.iaia.org (log in) > Admin & Member Services > Board and AGM minutes.

GUIDELINES FOR AGM AND COUNCIL MEETINGS DEVELOPED

In response to feedback and suggestions from conference delegates, IAIA CEO Rita Hamm in consultation with the Board has updated and developed new guidelines for Council meetings, the Annual General Meeting (AGM), and presentation of awards.

Highlights include that award winners will be listed in the final program (instead of having a separate flyer) and will be briefly introduced near the end of the opening plenary to ensure maximum exposure and familiarity to delegates. The Rose-Hulman winner will be recognized at the AGM and invited to give a 10-minute speech, and the Outstanding Service Award will be given at the Council Meeting.

For more details see the Board minutes at www.iaia.org (log in) > Admin & Member Services > Board and AGM minutes.

ZAMBIA SETS AMBITIOUS AGENDA

IAIA's pilot Affiliate in Zambia, the Impact Assessment Association of Zambia (IAAZ) formed to provide a forum for advancing innovation and communication of best practices in all forms of Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) in order to further the development of capacity in impact assessment. Its goals and activities include:

- Maintaining a database on impact assessment practitioners in Zambia
- Reviewing new legislation affecting Zambia in relation to environmental and social issues
- Holding monthly roundtable discussion on topics relating to EIA
- National or regional meetings, training, seminars and conferences on EIA themes or issues
- Giving awards for the best EIA documents

For more information, see <http://www.necz.org.zm/iaaz/index.htm>.

RESEARCH CORNER

INPUT INVITED FROM STUDENTS, SCHOLARS

One of IAIA's strategic goals is to make contributions, advancements and disseminate IA research. Among IAIA's members are several junior and established scholars who are passionate about impact assessment (IA) and bring that enthusiasm into their research. Master's and Ph.D. students in particular are close to the "sharp end" of innovative and original IA research, contributing to the advancement of the theory and practice of IA and providing up-to-date breadth and depth of knowledge on cross-cutting themes and topical issues.

The IA Research Corner is intended to provide students, as well as more senior scholars, an opportunity to inform other IAIA members about their research topics, disseminate knowledge, communicate findings, or seek contributions.

Contributions to this feature are invited. Text should be no longer than 300 words and may be sent to jen@iaia.org.

IAIA

HISTORIAN NEEDED

Do you have a knack for storytelling, an obsession with journaling, or a writing talent you would like to share?

Rabel Burdge has been IAIA's informal historian for several years but will retire in June 2012. If you are interested in volunteering, please contact Rita Hamm (rita@iaia.org) for information.

NETWORK WITH IAIA MEMBERS THROUGH CONNECT

On IAIA conference evaluations, "networking" is consistently listed as the #1 conference benefit. IAIA wanted to expand and enhance this benefit to all members, regardless of whether or not they could attend an IAIA conference. At the same time, the IAIA Sections wanted a replacement for the existing listservs. After exploring options and consulting the Sections, IAIA launched a new professional networking site: IAIAConnect.

Want to ask a question of all IAIA members, get Section members' opinions on a topic, or continue a discussion started at IAIA11 to involve those who didn't attend the conference? Log in at <http://iaiaconnect.iaia.org>, choose a group, and post your question.

While only IAIA members are allowed to post, reply and upload to IAIAConnect, non-members will still be able to view discussions, announcements and resources posted there.

Messages and replies on IAIAConnect are archived and accessible, much like an electronic bulletin board. Members can upload resources, collaborate on wiki documents, post event notices, and add a profile picture. Because IAIAConnect is integrated with our membership database, members can easily search for and view each others' profiles, so it serves as a membership directory as well. Activity on the site can be sent to members via e-mail notifications, with either a daily or weekly "digest."

If you have any questions, please contact Bridget John (bridget@iaia.org) or download two resource documents posted at www.iaia.org/iaia-connect: 1) Frequently Asked Questions and 2) a quick reference guide to the navigation system used in Connect.

CALL FOR CONFERENCE HOSTS

Are you interested in hosting a future IAIA annual conference in your country?

The Board evaluates many factors, including location; proposed theme in relation to the IAIA mission, vision and values; quality of the proposal; and potential financial outcome.

Contact Rita Hamm at IAIA HQ (rita@iaia.org) to express your interest and receive information on preparing an effective proposal.

WHY VOLUNTEER?

Reason #101: Meet a diverse range of people

Volunteering brings together a diverse range of people from all backgrounds and walks of life. Both the recipients of your volunteer efforts and your co-workers can be a rich source of inspiration and an excellent way to develop your interpersonal skills. Volunteering also offers an incredible networking opportunity. Not only will you develop lasting personal and professional relationships but it is also a great way to learn about people from all walks of life, different environments, and new industries. Networking is an exciting benefit of volunteering and you can never tell who you will meet or what new information you will learn and what impact this could have on your life. IN MEMORY

Gene M. Owens, long-time IAIA member and Co-Chair of IAIA's Washington Area Branch since 2008, passed away on 25 December 2011 at his home near Washington, DC.

Gene spent much of his career (1982-97) at Tulane University. He received a Ph.D. in Political Science from Georgetown University's School of Government and Foreign Affairs in 1974. Environmental economics became the focus of much of his work, and he was co-author of the publication Measuring Environmental Quality in Asia, and editor of the study "Financing Environmentally Sound Development." Gene retired from ADB in 1997 to join the Harvard Institute for International Development as Environmental Policy Advisor in Cairo, Egypt, in 1998, and then to set up his own consulting firm, EcoShare Group. He also served as Adjunct Professor at John Hopkins University's Advanced Academic Programs (Washington Center). Over the last several years, he has been associated with several international consulting firms with assignments in Afghanistan, Uzbekistan, Vietnam, Armenia, Thailand, China and Zambia.

For many years, Gene has actively promoted IAIA both in the USA and abroad, in particular in China. Since 2008, Gene co-chaired the Washington Area Branch of IAIA. We remember and appreciate his significant professional contributions and his persistent joy in working with all of us in IAIA—as we enjoyed working with him.

Friends of Gene wishing to make a contribution in his name to IAIA's capacity building fund for practitioners in developing countries, please contact IAIA HQ (info@iaia.org).

IAIA SEEKS INCLUSION IN SSCI

Impact Assessment and Project Appraisal is IAIA's journal. It is one of the few journals in the world fully dedicated to impact assessment. It is within IAIA aims to continue improving this journal and keep it at the level of the best international journals. An important step is to have IAPA indexed in the Social Science Citation Index (SSCI); this will improve the international recognition of IAPA as being among the best.

To achieve this status, IAPA needs to be cited in other journals that are already in the SSCI. And it needs to receive good and even excellent articles. You can help us in this effort. If you are submitting a paper to another journal, please make sure that the journal is already in the SSCI and please cite IAPA papers. And if you are submitting a paper to IAPA, remember that IAPA goes to over 120 countries, to libraries as well as to members, and is widely read by policy makers, consultants, etc., and by academics and students.

Submit papers to editors Angus Morrison-Saunders (A.Morrison-Saunders@murdoch.edu.au) and Francois Retief (francois.retiel@nwu.ac.za).
