

Regional Award

Awarded to a person or organisation who has made a substantial contribution to the field of impact assessment and/or has taken a leadership role in promoting best practice in impact assessment within the general world region of the location of the conference for that year. There would normally be only one award each year, and the award does not need to be awarded every year. The 2005 winner was The Commission for Environmental Cooperation of North America.

I nominate:

Justification:

Certificates of Appreciation

Awarded to all IAIA members who have undertaken major work on behalf of IAIA in the recent past. They are routinely given to all retiring Committee Chairs, retiring Board members, and any other person who has provided major contribution. They are NOT routinely given to retiring members of committees.

I nominate:

Justification:

Best Paper, Best Poster

An award is presented for the best paper published in Impact Assessment and Project Appraisal in the previous calendar year. This award is selected by the IAPA Editorial Board. An award is given to the best poster and best student poster at each conference on the basis of substance/importance of topic, communication effectiveness of the poster, and commitment to the concept.

2006-2007 Awards

Call for Nominations

Every year at its annual meeting, IAIA recognizes individuals, assessment teams and institutions by presenting them with awards to highlight and honor their contributions in the field of impact assessment.

You are invited to contribute suggestions for nominating potential award recipients for outstanding contributions in the field of impact assessment.

The Awards Committee will review the nominations and select winners, who will be recognized at the awards ceremony at IAIA07 in Seoul, Korea. Thank you for your important contribution.

IAIA Awards

IAIA Global Environment Award

Awarded to a leading individual or institution who has made a substantial contribution to the practice of environmental assessment, management or policy at a global scale, or has otherwise made a major contribution to promoting environmental sustainability or environmental justice. Particular emphasis is given to recognising efforts in promoting impact assessment for improvement of the global environment. This award was given for the first time in 2001 to Maurice Strong. The 2006 recipient was Dr. Wangari Maathai.

I nominate:

Justification:

Corporate Award

Made to a private sector corporation in recognition of contribution to developments in impact assessment, or to excellence in practice. Strong preference is given to recognising the contributions of larger organisations and for whole of corporation operation rather than for a specific project. Recent winners have included Statoil, ABN AMRO Project Finance & Sustainability Unit: The Netherlands, Scottish Power, Asian Development Bank and Gas Trans Boliviano S.A. (GTB) / Transportadora Brasileira Gasoduto Bolivia-Brasil S.A. (TBG).

I nominate:

Justification:

Institutional Award

Made to a national or international governmental or non-governmental organisation for contribution to impact assessment such as for a significant contribution to the practice of impact assessment, or for setting regulatory standards, or other environment related activity deserving recognition. Recent winners include Task Team on SEA of the Development Assistance Committee (OECD/DAC), Health System Research Institute, the African Development Bank, Southern African Institute for Environmental Assessment (SAIEA), the International Institute for Environment Development, and the World Commission on Dams.

I nominate:

Justification:

Individual Award

Made to an individual, who does not necessarily need to be a member of IAIA, to recognise personal contribution to the discipline of impact assessment such as by a theoretical contribution, best practice, etc. The award is meant to reflect major achievement over a period of time and at an international level, but could be within a narrow sub-field of impact assessment. The winner is likely to be a mid career professional, rather than an early or end of career individual. The 2006 winner was Jos Arts for his contribution to EIA follow-up.

I nominate:

Justification:

Rose-Hulman Award

The Rose-Hulman is IAIA's premier contribution award and is awarded to an individual for major contribution to the field of impact assessment over a sustained period. The recipient must be a present or past member of IAIA. Contribution to the field is broadly defined, and could include leadership in an organisation promoting impact assessment (such as IAIA), and/or contribution to the understanding of (through scholarship and research), or practice of, impact assessment. The contribution could also be on the basis of excellence or leadership in training in impact assessment over a lengthy period. The contribution of the recipient should be at an international level rather than only at a regional level. The award is meant to reflect sustained service to the field, rather than to reflect a specific achievement. Recent winners have included Alan Porter, Jean-Roger Mercier, Christopher Wood and Shirley Conover. The 2006 recipient was Robert Connelly.

I nominate:

Justification:

Outstanding Service to IAIA Award

Recognises one or a small number of key individuals within IAIA who have provided exceptional service to IAIA as an organisation over a number of years. Recent winners have included Desmond M. Connor, Lee Wilson, Angus Morrison-Saunders and Roger Creasey.
